RICHARD KING MELLON

1899-1970

Richard King Mellon was born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania on June 19, 1899, the son of Richard Beatty Mellon and Jennie King Mellon. Mr. Mellon served his country in both World Wars and in peacetime, attaining the rank of Lieutenant General, United States Army Reserve, and receiving the Distinguished Service Medal. Mr. Mellon was the dominant figure in the financial, industrial, and civic life of his community for many years. He was President of Mellon National Bank and for twenty years Chairman of the Board of Mellon National Bank and Trust Company; as a director, he aided the growth of many of the nation's leading enterprises, particularly Gulf Oil Corporation and Aluminum Company of America.

Mr. Mellon, President and Governor of T. Mellon and Sons, inspired and led the rebirth of a great American city. His creative energies forged the Pittsburgh Renaissance, a nationally recognized architectural, civic, social, and educational venture.

In 1936, Mr. Mellon married the former Constance Mary Prosser, who served as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Richard King Mellon Foundation from its inception in 1947 until her death in 1980.

A renowned sportsman, Mr. Mellon generously endeavored to preserve the quality of the natural environment and to protect its wildlife.

Mr. Mellon died on June 3, 1970.

2006 Foundation Highlights

Last year I had the pleasure of announcing an important transition for the Richard King Mellon Foundation, as six grandchildren of Richard King Mellon and Constance Prosser Mellon became trustees of the Foundation: Alison M. Byers, Psy.D., W. Russell G. Byers, Jr., Armour N. Mellon, Richard A. Mellon, Catharine Mellon Cathey, and Constance Elizabeth Mellon Kapp. This year I am pleased to report that Bruce K.M. Henderson, also a grandchild of General and Mrs. Mellon, was elected as a trustee on November 20, 2006. We are delighted to complement the board with these seven new members and welcome the fresh perspectives, ideas, and experiences of a new generation as the Foundation transitions to the future.

In 2006 the trustees approved new grants totaling a record $86,995,705, and the Foundation paid out $93,486,648 toward new grants. With much of this grant making, in five program priorities, we hope to highlight and strengthen the advantages of Pittsburgh and southwestern Pennsylvania as a vibrant, forward-looking, and desirable region.

Regional Economic Development

Gifts totaling $41 million for Regional Economic Development reflected southwestern Pennsylvania's emergence as a center of education, biomedical research and technology, medical care, environmental quality, and livability. We work with public and private partners to enhance Pittsburgh's assets in order to attract and keep a new generation of talented workers and community builders.

Among the Foundation's representative grants was $600,000 for the Idea Foundry's Transformation Fellowship program to help develop ideas in information technology into marketable products and companies. The Robotics Foundry and Digital Greenhouse, Inc. also received $600,000 for a technology commercialization competition to leverage the region's world-class advantages in advanced electronics, cyber security, and robotics.

A grant of $1,750,000 to the African American Cultural Center of Greater Pittsburgh reflects the city's pride in its growing diversity, as does a gift of $30,000 for "Silk Screen," Pittsburgh's first Asian American Film Festival. The success of "Pittsburgh Roars," a regional arts-marketing initiative supported by the Richard King Mellon Foundation in 2005, led to $500,000 in continuing support in 2006.

Additional grant making enhanced regional quality of life by assisting in the development of parks, the installation of a wireless network throughout Downtown Pittsburgh, the protection of our rich urban architectural fabric, the stewardship of shade trees, and the promotion of rural tourism in historic southwestern Pennsylvania.

Conservation

The Foundation has been a leader in the protection, preservation, and restoration of green and natural infrastructure throughout the United States, and these initiatives continued with gifts of $16 million in 2006. Our policy has been to form key partnerships with public and private agencies to identify, acquire, and safeguard strategically targeted sites. The Conservation Fund, for example, received $4,380,000 to help acquire conservation easements on approximately 257,000 acres of working forestland in Adirondack State Park. Representing one of the largest land conservation projects in New York's history, the newly protected lands will conserve sensitive wildlife habitat, protect water quality, and serve as sustainably managed, working forests to benefit the Adirondack Region's economy.

Education

The Foundation's longtime support of education continued with gifts totaling $15 million in 2006. Grants included $1,000,000 toward Pre-K Counts, a three-year pilot to build quality pre-kindergarten programs in Pennsylvania.

Seton Hill University in Greensburg, Pennsylvania, received $1,500,000 toward development of its Center for the Performing Arts. A gift of $300,000 over two years will help the Greater Pittsburgh Literacy Council expand its English as a Second Language (ESL) program.

Children, Youth, and Young Adults Among the Foundation's $8 million in giving in this priority was a contribution of $1,300,000 to Boys and Girls Clubs of Western Pennsylvania toward a capital campaign to upgrade facilities and enhance programming. The resulting changes will enable the clubs to significantly increase the number of youth served over the next three years.

The Ligonier Valley Young Men's Christian Association will use a grant of $1,000,000 as matching funds in a campaign to complete facility improvements and endowment expansion, while Outside-In School of Experiential Education will apply a lead gift of $800,000 toward a capital campaign to add new facilities. A model for other youth programs, Outside-In helps and guides troubled youth and their families.

Human Services and Nonprofit Capacity Building

In 2006 the Foundation contributed $6 million to support human service organizations through key intermediary organizations and a select number of critical and strategic service providers. The trustees approved contributions of $1,000,000 to the Baton Rouge Area Foundation to support Hurricane Katrina recovery planning costs, and $300,000 to New Orleans Police Foundation toward the housing needs of first responders following the devastating 2005 storm.

The Children's Institute of Pittsburgh, committed to children with special needs and their families, received $1,500,000 for a capital campaign.

And, to further the Foundation's policy of encouraging and facilitating resource sharing, the trustees approved a gift of $400,000 to Goodwill Industries of Pittsburgh to support a merger with Northside Common Ministries and for building renovations.

Since 1947 the trustees of the Richard King Mellon Foundation have enjoyed the privilege of helping to build a great city and, through gifts of land to the American people, enhancing the quality of life throughout the United States. We are especially proud that a new generation is now joining in the work begun by Richard King Mellon and Constance Prosser Mellon nearly 60 years ago.

Wonder

With 30,000 miles of brooks and streams, 6,000 miles of rivers, and nearly 3,000 lakes and ponds, Adirondack State Park offers some of the best canoeing and kayaking in the world. Partnering with the The Conservation Fund in one of the largest land conservation projects in New York State history, the Richard King Mellon Foundation helped to preserve 257,000 acres of working forests in the park. The newly conserved forestland will be managed according to Sustainable Forestry Initiative standards. The agreement restricts future development and subdivision on the property and provides for certain defined public access rights on specific portions. In addition, the project will maintain open space in the park, create new public recreation opportunities, protect major river corridors, and conserve critical wildlife habitat for spruce grouse, endangered bats, and several rare plant bogs.

Enjoyment

Thanks to land conservation that started in the 1920s, Allegheny County residents enjoy one of the nation's outstanding county parks systems. In 2006 this regional treasure expanded by 65 acres, with the acquisition of a brownfield adjacent to 3,010-acre North Park. The site will be reclaimed for recreation—but first it will play an important part in the North Park Lake Aquatic Ecosystem Restoration Project by serving as a collection site for sediment dredged from the lake.

The Richard King Mellon Foundation donated half the cost to purchase the land; funds from Growing Greener II, a voter-approved bond issue, covered the other half. The Foundation valued the guidance and partnership of TheWestern Pennsylvania Conservancy in helping to facilitate this land purchase.

Purpose

The life of a high-risk teen can turn on the availability of quality after-school activities. YouthPlaces operates daily after-school programs year-round at 17 sites in metropolitan Pittsburgh—programs focusing on academics, life skills, and career development. Parents and community and youth leaders shape these activities in order to develop young people's skills, increase their opportunity for success, and provide them with safe places to play and discover their talents.

Lori Schaller, executive director of YouthPlaces, stated that their programs "create opportunities for change, learning, and growth for many youth in communities without needed resources and services."

Strength

Outside In School of Experiential Education began as wilderness excursions for troubled teenagers—and has evolved into comprehensive services for restoring family relations, reducing harmful behavior and substance abuse, and better managing the pressures of home, school, and community.

"Outside In is all about personal growth opportunities. We challenge each student, each family, to live life to the fullest. We love to tell our boys on expedition who are struggling under the weight of their backpack that 'it's all about becoming a better man.' Before long, they see it in each other and they see it in themselves—they are stronger, wiser, more patient, more capable. They like the changes they see."

—Michael C. Henkel, founder and executive director, Outside In School of Experiential Education

Play

When it's Free Play time at Riverview Children's Center, a tree house can become a magic forest and a stuffed rabbit may have an important secret to share. Childhood is a special place and time, and play is how children discover their world, learn to communicate with others, and gain independence. Play can help children cope with both the triumphs and challenges of their lives.

In a nurturing and creative environment, Riverview focuses on children's care, social and cognitive development, educational needs, and interests, with careful attention to the individual needs of each child.

Welcome

At the Greater Pittsburgh Literacy Council, adults whose native language is not English soon feel more at home in a new culture as they improve their English listening, reading, and writing skills. English as a Second Language (ESL) now serves approximately half the Literacy Council's student enrollment. Beyond gaining conversational fluency, students also have the opportunity to work with tutors who can help with cultural concerns and issues of daily life.

"The success of this program is remarkable as we witness these students becoming more comfortable with our language and culture and communicating more effectively in their everyday activities," says Don Block, executive director of the Greater Pittsburgh Literacy Council.

Courage

The Children's Institute is all about "amazing kids." Comprising Pennsylvania's only free-standing pediatric rehabilitation specialty hospital, a day school for children who are challenged by complex and severe disabilities, and an adoption service, The Children's Institute is dedicated to the well-being of children, young people, and their families. The goal of the physicians, nurses, therapists, permanency planning specialists, and teachers in this "amazing place" is to enable each child to reach his or her fullest potential.

"Our 'amazing kids' want the same thing every other child wants—to be happy," says David Miles, president and CEO.
"Through dedicated medical, educational and family strengthening programs, we help children with special needs to do more. And they help us to understand the true meaning of courage."

Commitment

The Sprout Fund supports innovative ideas and grassroots community projects that are catalyzing change in the Pittsburgh region. Advancing community-led solutions to regional challenges, Sprout empowers young and creative people to become more involved and active in their communities.

Since 2003, through Sprout's public art program, communities have collaborated with local artists to create 31 colorful, enduring murals. Each work in this "museum without walls" engages neighbors and residents in civic dialogue and visually represents the community's people, history, and vision for the future.

"Murals transform the urban landscape and raise awareness about the important role that local artists can have in shaping communities," says Sprout's founding executive director Cathy Lewis Long.

Dreams

"When I was five years old," Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright August Wilson told a Pittsburgh audience, "I got my first library card from the Carnegie Library
Hill District branch on Wylie Avenue.
Andrew Carnegie will forever be for me that man who made it all possible for me to be standing here today. I wore out my library card and cried when I lost it."
Wilson said that when he became a teenager, "I would leave the house each morning and go to the main branch of the Carnegie Library in Oakland where they had all the books in the world. I felt suddenly liberated."

"Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh remains an important force for our region," says Dr. Barbara Mistick, Director of Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh. "As the region's most visited asset, the library provides more than books. We are the cornerstone of every neighborhood we serve, providing valuable economic and educational support to the community."

Notes to Financial Statements

NOTE 1—Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Accounting

The accompanying financial statements of the Richard King Mellon Foundation (Foundation) are prepared on the accrual basis of accounting.

Nature of Operations

The purpose of the Foundation is to provide grants to organizations in Pittsburgh and Southwestern Pennsylvania, primarily in the areas of Regional Economic Development, Education, Children, Youth, and Young Adults, and Human Services and Nonprofit Capacity Building. Its interest in the area of Conservation is national.

Cash

Cash includes operating accounts plus domestic income cash held in bank custody accounts.

Investments

For financial reporting purposes, investments are stated primarily at market quotations, which may not necessarily represent realizable values. Market quotations of foreign investments include the effect of the conversion into U.S. dollars at the foreign currency exchange rate in effect at year-end. Investments for which market quotations are not available are stated at estimated values as determined by investment managers. The book value of direct investments shown on the summary of investments is cost, except for donated assets which are valued at the market quotations at the date of receipt by the Foundation. Investments in alternative investments are valued at fair market value as determined in good faith by the general partner.

The Foundation's investments are exposed to various risks, such as interest rate, market, and credit. Due to the level of risk associated with investments and the level of uncertainty related to changes in the value of investments, it is at least reasonably possible that significant changes in risks in the near term may materially affect the amounts reported in the financial statements.

Realized gain (loss) from dispositions of investments is determined by specific cost identification. Unrealized appreciation (depreciation) of investments represents the change in the difference between market quotations and the total book value of investments held at the beginning and end of the year.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements. Estimates also affect the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Reclassifications

Certain reclassifications of the 2005 financial statements have been made to conform to the 2006 classifications. These changes had no impact on previously reported results.

NOTE 2—Federal Excise Taxes

The Foundation is exempt from federal income taxes under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. The Foundation is subject to a federal excise tax equal to two percent of net investment income, which consists of interest and dividend income, realized gains on sales of investments less realized losses to the extent that they can be offset against realized gains, less related investment expenses. The Foundation met certain distribution requirements defined in Section 4940 of the Internal Revenue Code, resulting in a reduced tax of one percent of net investment income for the year ended December 31, 2006.

For the year ended December 31, 2005, the Foundation provided for federal excise tax of two percent.

At December 31, 2006 and 2005, respectively, deferred federal excise taxes are provided at one percent, which is the rate expected to be paid on unrealized gains on investments.

NOTE 3 — Commitments

Report of Independent Auditors

To the Trustees of Richard King Mellon Foundation:

In our opinion, the accompanying statements of financial position and the related statements of activities and changes in net assets and of cash flows present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Richard King Mellon Foundation at December 31, 2006 and 2005, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Richard King Mellon Foundation's management; our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits of these financial statements in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The summary of investments as of December 31, 2006 and 2005 is presented for the purpose of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audits of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.
